“Standards in Excellence And Learning, (SEAL), is a unique collaboration among Canada’s finest independent schools. From coast to coast, these outstanding schools have come together to empower education and meet the demands of the 21st century. Its primary focus is accreditation whereby each of the 95 member schools is evaluated against a set of twelve internationally recognized best practice standards that encompass all aspects of today’s independent school, from its program, to its operation, to board governance and more. In addition, SEAL schools actively participate in sharing ideas, fostering open exchanges and professional development opportunities to enhance each school’s practices, and advance the quality of education in Canada. SEAL currently includes 95 Canadian independent schools in nine provinces across Canada, as well as 3 international schools, 27 of which offer boarding to international and Canadian students. Approximately 46,000 thousand students attend SEAL schools.”
